

Centre Law Group is seeking an associate attorney with 4-6 years of state and federal litigation experience for a full time position. While experience in and working knowledge of government contracts issues is preferred, we are willing to consider talented individuals without government contracting experience.

We seek attorneys who have a book of business and/or have a demonstrated ability to market themselves and/or their firm to grow and deepen their firm's client base.

About Centre Law Group:

Centre Law Group possesses extraordinary expertise in all aspects of federal procurement, business, and internet law. Our highly qualified attorneys possess more than sixty years of combined legal experience and have been repeatedly successful in litigating bid protests, cases, and claims at both the federal and state levels. Centre Law and its sister company, Centre Consulting combine to provide contractors a comprehensive solution to their government contracting needs. In addition, Centre Law Group launched an intellectual property group that will provide IP guidance and legal advice to contractors and non-contractors alike (including internet companies).

About the position:

The associate will work in tandem with more junior and senior attorneys (including partners) on a regular basis. Besides practicing law (in federal and state court), we would expect the associate to (eventually) give presentations to industry groups and help teach courses through Centre's Federal Contracting Institute. In addition, attorneys would be expected to periodically attend conferences (which would require travel) and network (at the firm's expense). Centre emphasizes the importance of getting out in the community and developing relationships with potential clients and colleagues.

Potential candidates should have experience drafting motions, discovery demands and responses, and meeting with and communicating with clients. We prefer candidates who have argued motions in court, taken and defended depositions, and conducted hearings (or trials).

The attorney will be paid commensurate with his or her experience. In addition, Centre offers a generous package of health and retirement benefits, vacation, sick and personal time.

If you're interested in the position, kindly submit a cover letter (which would include why you're a good fit) for our firm and a resume to <mailto:resumes@centreconsult.com>. We are looking for people with a friendly attitude to fit into our office.
